

Guide to Writing Sample

Nakul Joshi

The following article is a term paper I turned in for my introductory neuroscience class last year. The prompt was for us to choose any neuroscience topic that was relevant to us personally, research it thoroughly, and write a paper on the same. I have chosen it as my writing sample because it showcases my ability to learn about a topic I was not familiar with and effectively communicate my findings.